Financial advisory services

Specific classes of investors

As a Customer, you may be classified as an “accredited investor”, “expert investor” or “institutional investor” as defined in section 4A(1) of the SFA and as set out in the section “Investor Classes – Regulatory Definitions” of this Document (each a “Specific Class of Investors” and collectively “Specific Classes of Investors”). As a result of you falling within the Specific Classes of Investors, specific exemptions may apply to the provision of certain services by ICICI Singapore.

If you are an accredited investor or expert investor for the purposes of the FAA, we wish to inform you that ICICI Singapore and its representatives are, inter alia:

- (a) when providing any financial advisory service in respect of any designated investment product (within the meaning of section 25(6) of the FAA) to an accredited investor or any designated investment product (within the meaning of section 25(6) of the FAA), that is a capital markets product, to an expert investor, exempted under regulation 33 of the Financial Advisers Regulations (“FAR”) from the requirements in section 25 of the FAA;
- (b) when making a recommendation in respect of any investment product to an accredited investor or any capital markets product to an expert investor or in respect of any Government Securities, exempted under regulation 34 of the FAR from the requirements in section 27 of the FAA; and
- (c) when sending a circular or other similar written communication in which a recommendation is made in respect of any securities to an expert investor or an accredited investor, exempted under regulation 35 from the requirements in section 36 of the FAA.

If you are an institutional investor for the purposes of the FAA, we wish to inform you that ICICI Singapore and its representatives are, when providing any financial advisory service in respect of any investment product, exempted under regulation 32B of the FAR from the requirements in sections 25 to 29, 32, 34 and 36 of the FAA and regulation 37 of the FAR.

The key implication of the foregoing exemptions is that where you are provided any financial advisory services by ICICI Singapore (pursuant to an express agreement between ICICI Singapore and yourself for the provision of the financial advisory services), ICICI Singapore and/or its representatives are exempted by the MAS from particular requirements under the FAA and ICICI Singapore and/or its representatives will not owe you any statutory duty/duties in respect of those requirements, and hence you will generally not be able to bring any claim against ICICI Singapore and/or its representatives for any breach of such statutory duty/duties. In addition, as ICICI Singapore is exempt from compliance with section 27 of the FAA in respect of having a reasonable basis for making recommendations, you will not be able to rely on section 27 in respect of any claim against ICICI Singapore or its representatives. However, the exemptions do not affect in any way any civil rights or remedies that you may have under contract and/or general law in respect of any wrongful act by ICICI Singapore or its representatives.

A summary of each of the relevant sections set out in the above paragraphs are briefly provided below.

25. Obligation to disclose product information to clients
